This nonsense word test was developed by Elizabeth Brown to test students' progress in her Phonics and Spelling Lessons.

This test avoids whole-word guessing by eliminating real words. Students who can sound-out these words accurately have mastered the phonics principles and processes necessary to read The Phonics Lessons. It can be used in conjunction with my Phonics Lessons Progress Chart to document students' progress.

The scope of the program is adequate to produce functionally independent readers on at least an advanced high school or college level.

Visit my web site, www.donpotter.net, for the best in phonics instructional materials.

Elizabeth's Brown's program is available for free, worldwide download at her web site: www.thephonicspage.net.

This pdf file was produced for the convenience of parents and teachers using The Phonics Lessons.
